

To Our Crowley Partners,

A strong low pressure system, that's now located well offshore of the Mid-Atlantic coast, is continuing to affect the Eastern Seaboard of the U.S., along with Puerto Rico and the USVI with very large swells. As such, the Port of San Juan is now closed until Thursday morning. We expect that weather conditions will continue to deteriorate in these areas through Thursday, with normal conditions returning early next week. Crowley is monitoring the situation and has taken all appropriate steps to ensure the safety of personnel, vessels and your cargo during this time, while working to mitigate the length and impact of expected delays.

Please find the updated schedules for Crowley Puerto Rico Services below.

Review these schedules carefully and verify document, cargo and gate cut-offs when making your bookings.
